

psychotherapy services despite the fact that she is not licensed to provide such a service.

On August 7, 2003, respondent appeared with her counsel, Pamela Mandel, Esq., for an investigative inquiry into the matter before the Committee. Respondent testified that the advertisement had been placed without her knowledge by the person from whom she rents office space, and the advertisement has since been removed. Respondent explained that she has never placed any advertisement for her services. Regarding the billing statement she provided to a client, respondent testified that the client requested the statement with the code for individual psychotherapy so that the client could submit it to her insurer. Respondent claims this was the only instance where she ever provided such a billing statement for insurance.

Respondent testified that she holds no license in New Jersey which would entitle her to offer and/or provide psychotherapy. In 1979, respondent was a Certified Alcoholism Counselor ("CAC") which allowed her to provide counseling services in New Jersey for alcoholism. However, respondent admits that she did not renew this certificate after 1986, and that she was never a Certified Drug and Alcohol Counselor in New Jersey. The respondent explained that she let her CAC lapse as she had gained National Certification as a Certified Addictions Specialist (CAS), because she thought she was going to be relocating to Florida. She believed that the National Certification permitted her to engage in the same activities as the CAU. In addition, respondent presented the Committee with information about her educational and experiential background. Despite the fact that respondent holds neither a certification nor license which would allow her to provide any type of counseling service in New Jersey, respondent testified that she provides counseling services for individuals presenting with drug and/or alcohol addiction.

Having reviewed the entire record, it appears to the Committee that respondent has repeatedly engaged in the unlicensed practice of professional counseling in violation of N.J.S.A. 45:8B-39.

It appearing that respondent desires to resolve this matter without recourse to formal proceedings and for good cause shown:

IT IS ON THIS 8th DAY OF Jan 2004.
